There has been a great deal of confusion about a "non-partisan tariff" and again about a "scientific tariff." What Mr. Harding is aiming at is to do away with the rigidity of tariffs and an national special privilege when the national tariff board is created.

The government has a tariff board today but its data is disregarded according to political influences having the vote either in democratic or republican tariff making.

The vote in favor of free hides Wednesday was accomplished by the aid of 18 democrats who voted with 23 republicans and thus overcame opposition, consisting of 10 republicans and seven democrats. This is an instance of bi-partisan tariff making which reflects the tendency of the senate to work in groups and blocs irrespective of party principle.

In other words the most explicit illustration that has ever been given of the dangers of tariff making by

Writhing Flappers, Squealing Music Staggered Notice

How would it seem to attend an outdoor fair for the first time? What sensations would be aroused by the various midway attractions? Old timer, veteran of the turf, you're asked when it comes to answering for you can't remember the time when you weren't acquainted with all the tricks of the carnival.

Among the 18,000 blase who attended the Janesville fair Wednesday was Mrs. Helena Klotzka. Overlook farm, Beloit road, who was making her debut into the world of outdoor amusements. In this country from Poland for one year, Mrs. Klotzka never attended any sort of entertainment parallel to the Janesville fair.

She was mildly interested by the stock domestic displays, skeptically amused in the merry go-round, Ferris Wheel and sea plane, but the "knock-out" secured at the dance pavilion, her amusement verged on hysteria as she watched couple after couple tumble around the floor, infuriated by the vicious screaming of a saxophone.

DRIVERLESS CAR IN DASH THROUGH COURT HOUSE PARK

Two driverless automobiles figured in a freak accident in front of court house park shortly before 6 p. m. Thursday, attracting a crowd of several hundred at a time when the car was called a few days ago in protest against the increased cost of this commodity.

The large touring car owned by Miss E. Josephine Fitzgerald, 814 Court street, marked in front of the Woods flat building on Court street with front wheels loose from its position in some unaccountable way and started on a rampage. From the north side of Court street it rambled across the street and down the sidewalk, and finally rolled into court house park.

Gaining momentum as it moved onward, it wended its way in and out among trees and bushes in the park, narrowly missing striking three children at play, and dodging all obstacles as though controlled by a driver. After traveling nearly a block through the park, the machine came to an abrupt stop near the drinking fountain on South Main street when it crashed into the large sedan of Mrs. Edward Amersoph, parked opposite Amersoph's Flower Shop. Knocking it several feet into the street and damaging the front wheels and fenders, the Fitzgerald car suffered a few cents around the radiator and front fenders.

Robbery Theory Discounted by Discovery of Money in Farm Home.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison.—William Balzer, one of the Sauk City murder mystery victims, regained consciousness long enough Friday morning to say two strangers committed the murders. He lapsed into unconsciousness following the utterance of the words.

Balzer's condition showed a slight improvement noon and physicians were hopeful of his recovery.

The robbery theory, advanced as the probable motive of the murders in the mysterious case of the farm house murders, was exploded Friday morning when District Attorney H. J. Bohn announced that a sum of money was found in the farm home.

Inquest Is Delayed. District Attorney Bohn refused to make public the money found in the farm home, who are following every possible clue in the hopes of disentangling the most brutal crime in the history of Sauk county.

MANY GET PRIZES IN ARTS EXHIBIT

Home Talent Workers Given More Chance in Fair This Year.

High grade work in embroideries and needlework is shown at the Janesville fair this week, much of the old time stuff which has appeared for years being eliminated. Also most of the entries have been made from people living in Rock county which is also encouraging to local exhibitors. Another thing which helps local talent is that professional exhibitors touring the state have not appeared in so prominent a way as heretofore and the prizes are more evenly divided, thus giving the home talent workers a chance.

Of course, sheets and pillow cases appear in vast numbers and of most intricate designs. Then come towels, handkerchiefs, rugs, quilts, lace, luncheon sets and every kind of handwork that the feminine mind can conceive. Fine bed quilts and sofa pillows contributed by 510 cobwebs and fine handwork on embroideries are included in this class planned for women over 70.

Young Girls Complete
The prize giving was continued for girls under 18 and several ambitious girls competed. Especially noticeable were articles contributed by Fola Hilton, Ringold street.

Very fairly were the luncheon sets consisting of cloth and napkins and in one class of these a woman from Ft. Atkinson, Mrs. C. L. Bellman, secured first prize.

Wreath making with a flit insect, first was given to Mrs. G. D. Cannon. An embroidered bed spread of daisies of flowers, secured first prize for Mrs. A. H. Nelson, Rockford.

A handsome blue cotton quilt—first prize, Mrs. Alice Clark, route 4, log cabin, Mrs. Marcella Grunzell. A pair of embroidered pillow cases—Mrs. R. T. Kovatz.

Embroidered quilt—knit insertion—Mrs. A. R. Nelson. Knitted dollies—Mrs. A. M. Hall, Monroe street.

Embroidered dress cover and buttoned handkerchief—Miss. Mae Clark. Centerpiece crochot edge—Mrs. F. W. Koebler.

Miss Otto Lukas and Mrs. N. A. Hedberg are in charge of the exhibit. More Culinary Awards

Some more red and blue ribbons are noticeable in the culinary department, the judging on these articles being all completed. Prizes are: Sunshine cake—Mrs. Carl Hansen, Edgerton; marble cake, Mrs. H. B. Todd; hickory nut cake, Mrs. J. B. Wilson, route 10.

Prizes for sponge, caramel and white cake were won by Mrs. M. C. Boynton. The first for cranberry pie was won by Mrs. John Terry, Lemon pie, Mrs. A. Walker; chocolate pie, Mrs. W. B. Hill; loaf of bread, Mrs. F. W. Arnold; loaf of raisin bread, Mrs. H. B. Todd; nut cake, Mrs. J. B. Wilson; bread, Jennie Norton, Ringer avenue; nut bread, Mrs. James Youngblood; and for best collection of culinary exhibits, Mrs. H. B. Todd, Milton.

The large number of entries has made the work of the judges difficult, and the work on Friday morning on the pictures and the art, had just begun. The collection is good and reflects credit on the artists of Southern Wisconsin. Many of the landscapes are sketched from local scenery, and those made along Rock river are especially fine. Many of the pictures are formerly shown do not appear, and the art exhibits taken as a whole, are extremely creditable and show much ability, as well as careful training.

Miss Mary Clark and Thelma Clark are in charge of the fine arts department.

Many Janesville and Beloit residents, who formerly lived in Footville, are expected to attend. Arrangements are being made by a general committee composed of 20 men and women, representing the different church organizations. Will Canary is general chairman. Miss Bally Drew is chairman of the young women and Mrs. John McGuire of the married women. Baseball games, contests, a tug-of-war and barnyard golf will be held. The program will start at 10 a. m. when Orfordville and Magnolia baseball teams will play. Footville nine will play the winner of this game at 2:30 p. m. Janesville and Footville strong men will engage in a tug-of-war. Lunch is to be served at noon by the women of the church. Rev. Fr.

JOHNSON TO OPEN
CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

State Treasurer to Make Opening Speech Here—Morgan to Follow.

Henry Johnson, candidate for state treasurer, will make the opening speech of his campaign at court house park following the band concert tonight. It is not often that Henry Johnson makes a speech but when he does he has something to say. He promises some sensational revelations tonight.

William J. Morgan, candidate for governor, closed his campaign at the northern part of the state at Black River Falls last night and is on his way to Janesville. He is scheduled to speak at Stoughton, Edgerton and Janesville before reaching Janesville.

In five weeks, Morgan has spoken in 51 counties and in each has made from three to nine speeches. He has made the last ten days while suffering from a severe cold and at Black River Falls was under the care of a physician for the first time in the campaign.

Morgan has made a fighting campaign, one of the best that has been made in the state. He has the largest majority of any candidate with more than 100,000 larger majority in the election than was given to Blaine, his present opponent.

ROTARDALE GIRLS TO RETURN SATURDAY

Competition is keen among the high school girls now at Camp Rotardale. Miss Isabel Morris, writing of camp life, says:

"During the morning the class in nature study went on a hike to get specimens of various tree-leaves, flowers and weeds around camp, while the rest passed off tests in campcraft and in the afternoon, baseball was the favorite. Alice Kimball and Helen Cushing acted as captains. The game ended 17-3 in favor of Camp Rotardale. The girls who have had charge of the camp are: Alice Kimball, Helen Cushing, Louise McNaught, and Wednesday afternoon, the other half were to go Thursday."

"Some of the girls have had charge of council fire at night. Monday night Louise McNaught had charge, and Wednesday night, Helen Cushing had charge."

"This group will return Saturday, closing their 19-day outing."

William Werrell, Madison, is spending several days at the camp. He and Mrs. William H. McGuire, South High street.

Federal Board Has Optimistic View of Outlook

Special Summary by Federal Reserve Board

The outstanding feature of the greater part of the month has been the continuance of business and industrial activity at the relatively high rate recently attained. In fact, production has shown further increases in some lines, while in those which normally would be noticeably affected by seasonal influences, decreases on the whole have been relatively slight. At the same time, prices have continued their upward tendency.

As the current month progressed the effects of the coal and railroad strikes began to make themselves felt. This influence has served recently to restrain productive activities

In various lines notably iron and steel. The plans recently announced by the administration are expected to relieve the situation.

The output in various lines of manufacture showed further improvement in June. This was particularly noticeable in the case of iron and steel, copper, automobiles and tanning. Construction activity has been well sustained. The amount of bituminous coal mined in June showed a considerable increase. But since the opening of the present month has fallen off, the coal stocks have consequently been somewhat drawn upon. Petroleum output continued large, stocks are in fact accumulating.

A further reduction in the number of persons out of work was reported during June, and scarcity of labor continued to be noted, especially in the building trades. Agricultural prospects are still very satisfactory for the country as a whole. In wholesale trade there was a general improvement during June. The volume of retail trade was well sustained though slightly less than in May.

Financially, there have been few new developments noted for the month. Two Federal Reserve banks reduced the discount rate. Of much interest has been the announcement by the treasury calling for redemption on December 15, 1922, of approximately one billion dollars of the 4% per cent Victory notes. Federal Reserve bank portfolios show little change, while member bank loans other than those secured by stocks and bonds show a downward tendency.

The Cross-Cut

A Serial Story of the Colorado Mines

By Courtney Ryley Cooper.

SYNOPSIS

At Thornton Fairchild's death his son Robert learns there has been a dark period in his father's life which now 30 years has caused him suffering. The secret is hinted at in a document left by the elder Fairchild, which also informs Robert he is now owner of a mining claim in Colorado, and advising him to see Henry Danmish, a lawyer.

CHAPTER II—Danmish tells Robert his claim, a silver mine, is at Ohadi, thirty-eight miles from Denver. He also warns him against a certain man, "Sammy" Roddick, his father's enemy. Robert decides to go to Ohadi.

CHAPTER III

On the road to Ohadi, from Denver Fairchild assists a girl, apparently in a frenzy of haste to change a tire on her auto. When she has left, the sheriff and a posse appear in pursuit of a bandit. Fairchild, bewildered by the mistake, is to the direction the girl had taken.

A running leap, and Fairchild seated himself on the tailboard of the truck, swinging his legs and looking out over the fading plains as the truck roared and clattered upward along the twisting mountain road.

Far at the brow of a steep hill it appeared, seeming to hang in space for an instant before leaping down ward. Rushing, plunging, once skidding dangerously at a small curve, it made the descent, bumped over a bridge, was lost for a second in the pines, then sped toward him, a big touring car, with a man at the wheel.

With a report like a revolver shot, the machine suddenly slewed in drunken fashion far to one side of the road, hung dangerously over the steep cliff an instant, righted itself, and sped away, leaving Fairchild staring.

Staring, Robert Fairchild saw that a small trim figure had leaped forth and was waving excitedly to him, and he ran forward.

"His first glance had claimed it a boy, the second had told a different story. A girl—dressed in far different fashion from Robert Fairchild's limited specifications of feminine attire—she caused him to stop. Again she waved a hand and stamped a foot excitedly; a vehement little thing in a snug whipcord riding habit and a checkered cap pulled tight over close fitting hair, she awaited him with all the impatience of impetuous womanhood.

"For goodness' sake, come here!" she called, as he still stood gaping. "Will you get out of that car! Hurry!"

Fairchild managed to voice the fact that he would be willing to help with remuneration, as he hurried forward. She divined for the tonneau, jerking with all her strength, the stiff heavy seat cushion, as he stepped to the running board beside her.

"Can't get this dinged thing up!" she panted. "Always sticks when you're in a hurry. That's it! Jerk it. Thanks! Here! She reached for a small, round, black handle, and with a gasp of surprise, she pulled it. The tonneau came up, and she stepped in, looking back at him with a gasp of surprise.

"Yes! I'm raising the car now." "Oh, please hurry." There was pleading in the low tone now.

The car creaked upward. Out came Fairchild, brushing the dust from his clothes. But already the girl was pressing the lug wrench into his hands.

"Don't mind dirt," came her exclamation. "I'll give you some extra money to get your suit cleaned. Loosen those lugs, while I get the spare tire off the back. And for goodness' sake, please hurry!"

Amusement had taken away speech for Fairchild. He could only wonder—and obey, while behind him a girl in whipcord riding habit and close-pulled cap fidgeted first on one tire, then on the other, anxiously watching the road behind her and calling constantly for speed.

At last the job was finished, the girl fastening the useless shoe behind the machine while Fairchild tightened the rest of the lugs. Then as he straightened, a small figure shot to his side, took the wrench from his hand and sent it, with the other tools, clattering in a pocket, something that

Fairchild, almost before he knew it, found himself under the rear of the car, fussing with a refractory lifting jack and trying to keep his eyes from the view of, truth to tell, a very attractive little figure as they rattled about at the side of the car, hurried to the running board, then stopped as wrenches and a hammer clattered to the ground. Then one shoe was raised to, and again a feminine metal touched metal, a feminine gasp sounded as strength was exerted in vain, then eddying dust as the foot stamped, accompanied by an exasperated exclamation.

"Dirt! dirt! dirt! They're rusted! Got that jack in place yet?" "Yes! I'm raising the car now." "Oh, please hurry." There was pleading in the low tone now.

crinkled was shoved into the man's grasp, and while he stood there gazing, she leaped to the driver's seat, slammed the door, spun the starter until it whined, and with one cut-out, moving again, was off and away, rocking down the mountain side, around a curve and out of sight, while Fairchild merely stood there, staring wonderingly at a ten-dollar bill!

"Which way did he go?" "Robert Fairchild stared. "You. Didn't a man just pass here in an automobile? Where'd he go, straight on the main road or off on the circuit trail?"

"It—it wasn't a man. It—it was a boy, just about 15 years old."

"Oh, yes—Fairchild was swimming in deep water now. "I got a good look at him. He—he took that road off to the left, toward the hurrying fugitive in whipcord riding habit. There was doubt in the interrogator's eyes."

"Sure of that?" he queried. "I'm the sheriff of Arapahoe county. That's an auto bandit brand of us."

"Well, I wouldn't swear to it. There was another machine ahead, and I lost 'em both for a second down there by the turn."

"Probably him all right." The voice came from the tonneau. "Maybe, he figured to give us the slip and get back to Denver."

"Let's go!" The sheriff was pressing a foot on the accelerator. Down the hill went the car, to be seen to make a short turn on the road which led away from the scene, leaving behind a man standing in the middle of the road, staring at a ten-dollar bill and wondering why he had had!

The bans had been published for the first time in a country church. After the service the prospective groom came to the vicar:

"Mr. Parson, I want to speak to you. About those bans—can I have 'em corrected?"

"Of course, if you wish," was the surprised reply. "You are not married yet, or legally bound in any way?"

"Ah—with a sigh of relief—"That's what I wanted to know. You see, I've been thinking it over, and seems to me I'd rather have her sister."

"You can please yourself," replied the vicar. "But, of course, fresh bans must be published."

"Ah—yes—Mr. Parson, I paid a half a crown for putting up those bans. Shall I have to pay another half crown?"

"Naturally, if you change your mind so late in the day, you must expect to pay for it."

"Ah—a longer pause. Then, with a sudden resolution, "Ah—well—leave 'em be as 'tis."

An Englishman, tired and very thirsty, struck a small town in Kentucky from all evening.

Approaching a long, lean Kentuckian who was holding up a fence outside a corner grocery store, he said in a low voice:

"Excuse me, but is there a place round about here where a chap can get a drink?"

The Kentuckian pointed to a little building some distance away. "He asked that church over there," he asked.

"Yes," replied the Englishman. "I see it. But you don't mean to tell me you can buy a drink in a church?"

"No," said the Kentuckian. "That's the only place in this town where you can't."

FLOATING A DISC AT WILL
An extended metal disc is made to float at the command of the magician, but anyone else is utterly unable to perform this feat.

You have two discs seemingly alike, but one must be much lighter than the other. One is made of aluminum, the other of zinc. They can be ordered from any tinmith for a few cents.

Pass the zinc disc around, asking those present to make it float. It will, of course, sink.

Have the other disc concealed in your handkerchief, and in wiping off the zinc one substitute for it the one made of aluminum and the latter will float easily.

HAVE YOU GREY HAIRS?

To judge from my correspondence, all our young people of today are going gray. Whether it is the result of the strenuous life we lead nowadays, whether it is because more than ever we are crowded together in cities, or whether we are becoming more nervous, I cannot say.

Personally, I am inclined to think we are too ambitious and too strenuous. Girls who hold responsible positions in offices, girls who teach school, women in business for themselves—these are the ones who write and say that at the age of 24 or 25 grey hairs are showing, and that by 30 grey hairs predominate.

It is for this reason that the Pilocarpine hair tonic is so much in demand. Pilocarpine is good for the hair, it also acts directly upon the color cells, stimulating them to renewed activity. The formula is as follows:

Pilocarpine Hydrochloride, 2 grains
Precipitated Sulphur, 30 grains
Glycerol (Lily), 30 grains
Castor Oil, 10 drops
Alcohol (50 per cent), 4 ounces
Tr. Cantharides, 4 drams
Perfume Cologne, 1 dram
Rose Water, 1 ounce

Even without the Pilocarpine, the most expensive part of the tonic, this is a good tonic, the cantharides is actual grey hairs have not appeared. Nerves have a great deal to do with the health of the hair—and we are all nervous these days, it seems.

Jeanne—There is nothing in the eyelash tonic that could hurt the eyes. But the eye is always sore and will smart, if you get even the faintest of oils in it. This should only be for an instant, however, and in no way injurious. The directions of the formula explain this and you are told to apply the tonic to the roots from the point of a fine brush.

"Keratin" would be very foolish for a girl of 16 to try to reduce the size of her bust. As this apparent overdevelopment is only due to an uneven growth. Next year she will be grown up, and in some other ways and she will be in proportion. Boys and girls too, grow abnormally in length of legs and arms and they feel just as sensitive as she does now, but in a year or two are their bodies will have attained the proper development so all is in proportion.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 15 years old and have been going with two boys. One of them I like very much. He is considered very good looking and all the girls are crazy about him. He has a car and has taken me out in it many times.

This boy has made love to me. He says he won't go with a girl until she lets him spoon and that nowadays if a girl lets some one spoon her, she is no longer a virgin. He told me that I could count on it that every other girl who went with boys kissed them. My other friend is different. He doesn't ask me to kiss him, but I don't like him nearly so well.

One night I was sitting on the porch with my friend and he was making love to me. I didn't hear father come and so he surprised us. I never saw anything so mad in my life as my father was. He told the boy to get out and never dare to show his face at our house again. Then father told me I couldn't go with boys until I was 18 and he surprised me. I never saw anything so mad in my life as my father was. He told the boy to get out and never dare to show his face at our house again. Then father told me I couldn't go with boys until I was 18 and he surprised me.

How old ought I to be before father will consider me old enough? RUTH.

Your father will probably keep you away from boys until he thinks you are "spoiled." What the boy told you regarding love-making is probably true if his class-brother is not true to all young people. All girls do not permit themselves to be kissed, and all boys do not demand it.

You must build higher ideals. Keep your kisses for the man you love and do not cheapen yourself by permitting carresses from any young man who feels inclined to bestow them.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young married woman and I am very unhappy because my husband loves his mother and sister's more than he does me. He wants to walk over to their house every night after supper. At first I used to go with him, but then I refused to go, thinking he would stay at home more, but he didn't and he goes without me. Now his mother and sisters think it is mean because I won't go and they don't like me.

My own mother lives many miles from here. She wants me to leave my husband and come home. What do you think would be best for me to do? BLUE EYES.

If you can go home for a visit, I will advise you to do so. This would give you an opportunity to find out how much you really care for your husband and how much he cares for you. I believe the separation would do both of you good and when reunited each would try harder to please the other.

In case you do not find it possible to go home, I would advise you to bring about more friendly relations with your husband's family. Invite his people over to dinner and show that you are interested in them. After that go with your husband when he wants to walk over home. It is only natural that you would prefer to have him stay at home, but since he will not, you will be happier by going with him.

Perhaps there is not enough life in your home. Entertain young people more and see if that makes your husband more contented. You know it is difficult for a member of a large family to be happy in a home where there are just two. Try to get your husband's point of view and decide what it takes to make him contented, and then give it to him in his own home.

Alkali in Shampoos
Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, it it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a husband loves his hair. The whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoons of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dirt, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

DRAWING LESSONS FOR OUR KIDDIES

KING LION

UPON a circle you can start and build this good-looking poster of King Lion. The building or making of a drawing is just like the building of anything else. Using the circle for a foundation, you see, makes drawing very easy for you. On the circle you first place the nose and cheeks. Next you add the chin, top of head and eyes; then the great shaggy mane. Add a few whiskers, and you have the poster complete.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Mrs. Elwood says that "Katie and Winnie are breaking her heart."

Katie and Winnie are Mrs. Elwood's two-year-old daughters. They don't look like heart-breakers. They sail forth to their respective jobs in the morning, with their smart heels clacking and their dimples working on all sides. They look adorable, and awesomely efficient.

And it's that very efficiency which is contributing to Mrs. Elwood's heartbreak. "They think they know it all," she wails. "They never ask my advice about anything, and if I give it they just laugh. And obey—they don't know the meaning of the word. When I scold them they just look as if they hated me!"

Perhaps you, too, are the parent of a Modern Daughter who is breaking your heart. Are you? Did you ever stop to think that perhaps your heart is a bit to blame for letting it be broken? Maybe you're trying to use that heart as a barrier against the highway of someone's life—and then grieving because it gets kicked. Does your daughter, too, look as if she "just hated you" when you discipline her decisions? How would YOU look and act if someone tried to interfere with what you considered your essential freedom? I don't deny that she's inconsiderate and thoughtless of you—creed—but are you quite thoughtful of her?

"What can you do to prevent it?" Nothing. It's going to be dreadfully

Why Women Get Despondent

Are not women naturally as light-hearted, buoyant and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly, but a woman's organism is essentially different from a man's—more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more dependent. When a woman's development, cragging down pains and melancholia she should have no time in giving

Fastest Quarter and Half of Season Clocked on Thursday

Sensations Prevail as Great Races Are Held; Spencer Horse Captures

Two of the fastest quarters and halves ever paced on the Janesville harness race track were clocked in the 2:13 pace Thursday afternoon, won by Kentucky Patch, whose sire is Dan Patch, and driven by M. L. Anderson, of Cannon Falls, Minn. The time cannot go down in the books as a record, but it can be mentioned along with several other things as showing the top-notch class of the present meeting.

Here goes for the figures. In the first heat, Kentucky Patch flicked past the quarter in 31 seconds flat, which he repeated in the second heat. The time for the half in the first heat was 1:01. That for the half in the second heat was 1:02.

While the average time of Wednesday's wonderful program was not reached, there was even more excitement to Thursday's races than on the previous day. This was true especially in the 2:13 pace and in the 2:14 pace. The latter was taken by General Baldwin, by Vin Commodore, owned by George Vogel of Solon Mills, Ill. The 2:14 trot also showed first rank material. It was won by Frank Sterling, one of George Spencer's horses, driven by Persons.

Crowd Reached 4,000. While the crowd on Thursday was not so large as that on Wednesday, it was estimated that 4,000 occupied the grandstand and bleachers and hung on the fences.

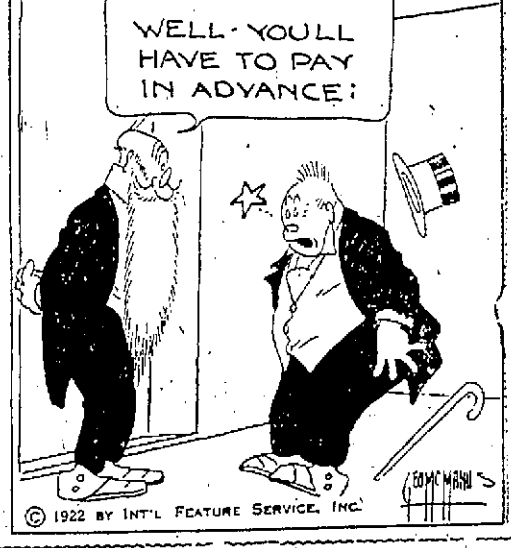

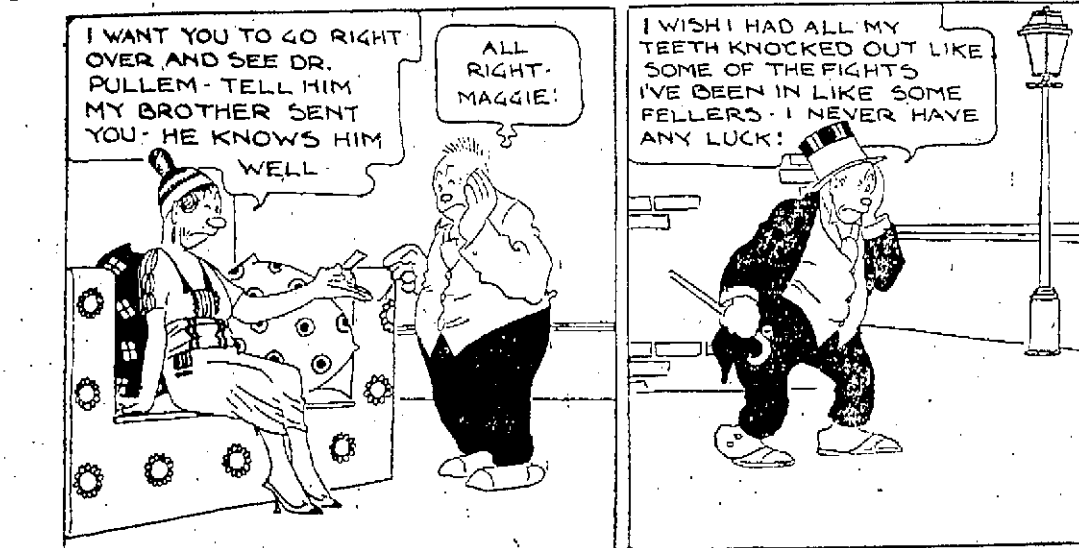

So keen was the competition in Thursday's events that the hours were necessary in this 2:13 pace and the 2:14 pace. Though the speed in the 2:14 was not so rapid as in the 2:13, the 2:14 was slightly the more sensational, particularly in the first heat. The winner of the 2:14, General Baldwin, was discarded as a possibility at the end of the first heat when he passed under the wire in eighth place. California Patch having come up from the rear in a half minute burst to take the lead at the last turn. The judges had even announced him discarded, but Driver Vogel said the dust was so thick he could not see the flag.

California First Twice. But in the second heat, Young Vogel began to make the spectators sit up and take notice as he shot his mount out to the side at the three-quarters in a dandy exhibition of yeamanship. Under the whip the lead from California Patch. That is not to take any of the credit away from Daly, who drove the winner of the first two heats.

A dispute marred the third heat. California Patch was up to the back of the bunch in the second place. The last turn, Thomas—three winner Wednesday—was in second place with Jay Bond. As General Baldwin pressed the leader, Thomas tried to cut out of the bunch and in doing so forced Daly to take California Patch to the outside on the last turn. General Baldwin finished first in the heat.

Here's What Happened. Thomas was driving in first in the fourth heat until the quarter, when General Baldwin, second, May Wood was coming up fast, but broke at the third quarter. The General stretched away on the straightaway and paced into first under the wire. It was in the deciding heat of the race that General Baldwin displayed marvellous ability. Under the American Trotting Association rules, there were only two starters—General Baldwin and California Patch. The start made got away with a head start but Vogel put his stallion into the lead on the first turn and took the pole. They were neck and neck at the quarter. Then General Baldwin broke. He ran for an eighth of a mile. As he passed the half mile, California Patch was leading by three lengths. Taking the first turn on the second lap, General Baldwin was coming up, pounding in the third quarter. While a wild burst of cheers came from the crowd, General Baldwin passed California Patch on the last turn and won by a length. It was the best driving in the first heat of the 2:13 pace that set the season's best time. In the first heat, Edith McKinney, owned by former mayor John Nichols, now of St. Mary, was in good humor and broke, as she did in every heat thereafter, and Kentucky Patch slid up to be an easy winner. Jim Woodman, owned by Chandler & Reinhardt, in first center, was in the second heat until the quarter, when Kentucky Patch grabbed the lead. The audience was gripped by the speed of the bunch. Another one of the fastest in the 2:14 pace was away in first on the third heat, remaining there until the half with Verovanna second and Jim Woodman third. Kentucky Patch was fourth and coming up but busted in on the turn and Anderson could not get him back in. Laddie Patch winning. Verovanna held the lead in the fourth heat with Kentucky Patch fifth and coming up, but Laddie Patch shot out and won by a length. The deciding heat was a race so far as competition and time was concerned. Kentucky Patch taking his hands down.

Spencer Horse Happy. George Spencer, formerly in charge of the Janesville training stables, could not sleep the night before because of heart trouble that attacked him while on the Illinois circuit. Persons drove Spencer's Frank Sterling. Despite his absence, George will be elated over a victory he helped to win Thursday afternoon.

Not only did he want Frank Sterling to win the 2:14 trot—which he did—but he was anxious to have him set a mark of 2:08 1/4 on the fourth track. He got it in the second heat. In the first heat, the drivers were after Frank Sterling. With Alway, a Peter the Great offspring, in first and Top of the Road in second, the horses were bunched at the three-quarters. At the turn, Persons came up to the side and took the lead. Frank Sterling led all the way in the second heat with the pack pushing heavily. In the deciding heat, Top of the Road was off first, with Frank Sterling fourth. Frank Sterling and Alway had come up, where they stayed at the half, the field bunched. In a great exhibition of racing, Frank Sterling won. Friday promised to be a big day with three $100 purses. There was the 2:20 pace, the 2:24 trot and the 2:17 trot. Already announced was to the effect that there would be 15 starters in the 2:20 pace, which was to necessitate three heats. The track was wet thoroughly Thursday night to get it in the best condition for Friday's racing. An accident was narrowly averted at the second heat of the 2:14 pace Thursday when May Wood slipped while scoring and spilled Driver Manney onto the turf, dragging him several feet.

L. A. RUCHTI WINS WITH DUROC LITTER

Henry Wieland Has Grand Champion Boar, Croft Winning Sow

Your fair exhibit has convinced me that Rock county has become the Duroc-Jersey hub of the United States," declared Gus Boshstead, Ohio, swine judge at the Janesville fair. "The display was remarkable and it is to be hoped you can keep going at the present rate. I notice great improvement over the previous years. The entire swine exhibit was exceptionally good for any fair."

Clarence Croft, Janesville, one of the younger breeders of the county, in age, carried off major honors in the Duroc class. Croft had no chick in any class for there were only a few poor pigs put into competition. They were remarkable for their smoothness, fitness and development, real top-notchers. The best from the exhibit and in the county will be taken to the state fair under the "Rock county first" banner.

Wieland Is Winner

Henry Wieland and sons, Beloit, spring a surprise in winning the grand champion honors in the boar classes. The Wieland entry, Valley Giant, won in the junior yearling class, finishing ahead of Noble's Sensation, owned by L. A. Ruchti. Then the Beloit entry was pitted against Fashion-Plate, the giant Duroc sire from the Ruchti farm, and won the senior yearling class because of his unusual physique as a great boar with additional development.

"That boar properly handled will make Duroc history," commented Boshstead.

The climax contest in the Duroc class was the future litter contest. There were 64 pigs driven into the pavilion ring for the litter and open fair classes. It was a wonderful showing.

The boar and litter contest in both the future litter contest and fair prize were first decided. The first five in the litter match won fair money, and 10 won in each class in the association competition.

Clarence Croft took first money on boar with an entry that should win at the state fair. This pig has the ear-marks of being a corner. L. A. Ruchti won second, and the other was then, Clarence George, Alva Maxfield, Clarence Croft, J. A. Ruchti, George Morrison, Selk brothers, Fred Waldman and Harry Dahl.

In the gilt contest the places were awarded as follows—L. A. Ruchti, with an animal with perfect feet, good bone and smoothness, then Selk brothers, Croft, Ruchti, Croft, Maxfield, Selk, Morrison, George and Waldman.

Then came the litter contest and there was little question but what the Ruchti entry deserved first place. Croft took second and then the others in the order named: Selk brothers, Morrison, George, Maxfield, Waldman, R. J. Nelson, Harry Dahl, W. V. Henry and son, Avalon. The fine quality of the display appealed to the ringside spectators. None of the entrants had poor animals. When it was considered there were 172 pigs and hogs at the fair, second and third ribbons are to be valued.

In age boar, Croft placed first

With a little more fattening this boar is in line for a state championship. A. O. Purseth, route six, Janesville, won grand championship sow honors. The honors in the Poland division were fairly well split up among the breeders having hands engaged.

HEAD OF CAVALRY TROOP IS FIRST IN MARKSMANSHIP

Supply Is Declared Safe by State Health Board After Tests

Capt. Gilman H. Sturtevant of the Janesville cavalry company, is an expert shot. This is attested by the records he has been keeping down this week at Camp Douglas where the troop is in training. He is leading the rifle scores for the state grand camp for the second period with 123 out of a possible 150, and ranked among the top notchers of the pistol range with 278. Rev. C. D. Boardman, captain of the Delavan company, made 298, which is but nine points below the top-notchers, Col. J. J. Schellen, Neenah.

U. W. Professor Dies After Crash

Madison—Funeral arrangements for Axel E. Berger, assistant professor in gas and steam engineering at the University of Wisconsin, who died Thursday night from injuries received in an automobile accident, were to be completed Friday.

Professor Berger, who was accompanied by G. J. Larson, professor of steam and gas engineering, was driving on the Middleton road, and the professor attempted to turn his car into College Hills road. It was struck by a car driven by Frank Hoover.

Local Man Buys Hotel in Madison

Purchase of the Simon hotel, one of Madison's oldest hostilities, by Frank Stoldt, 1150 Milton avenue, Janesville, has been announced. Mr. Stoldt moved here a year ago from Monroe, Wis., took possession of the hotel this week. The family will move to Madison soon.

The hotel has 24 rooms and has a front of 55 feet on Butler street. For many years it was a favorite of farmers who came to that city and the home of many Wisconsin legislators.

Little Change in Highway Detours

Madison—The detours on the different highways around Milwaukee and vicinity have remained much the same during the last week, the Milwaukee Journal's tour department review. Friday's says:

Highway 15 north to Fond du Lac and Green Bay still has 21 miles of detour between Elkhorn and Fond du Lac and a rather poor 2 mile detour just outside of Oshkosh.

STATE PUTS O. K. ON ICE USED HERE

Supply Is Declared Safe by State Health Board After Tests

Janesville's natural ice supply has been given the official "O. K." of the Wisconsin board of health. It was announced Friday by local health officials—Dr. Fred B. Welch and Dr. L. J. Woodworth. Ice being distributed here this summer by two companies is officially pronounced "safe" following careful laboratory tests made at Madison.

Summertime ice of both companies were taken late in July by Dr. Welch and Dr. Woodworth and transported to Madison by automobile.

Freezing Kills Injuries

"In my 14 years' experience as a physician, I have never known of a case of disease traceable to ice," said Dr. Welch. "It is a fact generally known that practically all of the impurities of water are eliminated in the process of freezing. Combining with this the storing of ice for three months or more—as is the case with ice used here—there is practically no danger."

Danger of Handling

While accepting the state board's report of the ice as being safe, Dr. Welch would neither approve nor disapprove of the practice of putting ice directly into water and beverages for human consumption.

"There is so much chance for contamination in the handling of the ice and in breaking it up for such use, that I would hesitate to recommend it," he said. "It is possible, however, to handle it in such a way that there is no danger of contamination."

Chicago—Edward Schillo, former race driver and auto dealer, and Roy J. Keller, an automobile man, were killed when their airplane fell at Naperville, Ill.

Angus Cattle at the Fair

All Awards for Sheep and Goats

Giant black Angus cattle from the herd of W. L. Gelbach and son, Lancaster, Wis., are being shown at the Janesville livestock exposition. Gelbach had no competition, but this herd has been consistent in fair winning for a number of years.

At one time Rock county was noted for good Angus cattle, but the rush for strictly dairy cattle pushed the black cattle out of the limelight and there are only two good herds in the county now. Many breeders still use the Angus as feeder cattle, for they are good in beef production.

The Gelbach herd is known as Dad-gorlawn and is the oldest Angus herd in Wisconsin. It was founded in 1821 by a purchase from John Milne, Commissioner of the Illinois state, and from the Amos Hall and son, Illinois breeders.

Phil Roesech, a Civil war veteran, and W. L. Gelbach were partners in the business in the pioneer days of the black cattle breeding.

They used good sires such as Golden Nugget, Camden, Maple Leaf, Toddy, Blackcap Earl, Baron, Eschbar, Jann, Granger of Drumplin, Black Knight's Hero, Maltby, Laddie and Star W. P., which has been senior herd sire for the last three years and is being shown in the fair herd. His place in the herd is being taken by the sire Proud Boy third, having the blood of the great bull, Prince Leo.

Baron Barbara was sired by the champion show and great breeding bull, Black Woodlawn, and his dam was a sure fair winner, a champion as a two-year-old.

The herd is a remarkable example of good breeding and development and it is to be hoped Gelbach will return to the Janesville fair next year.

Miles took all prizes for Rambouillet, Hampshire Down and South-downs, and had the champion ram and ewe for fine and medium wool. Hogan captured the championship for long wool.

E. Crail and Son placed for a majority of prizes for American Merino, Horned Dorsets, Lincolns and Leicester and Angora goats.

Prizes for Cotswolds and Oxford Downs were taken by Hogan, who also won first for a Cheviot ram, two years old or over, competing with Crail's.

3 Breeders Take All Awards for Sheep and Goats

Prizes for sheep at the Janesville fair were taken by three large breeders, who took the premiums with no competition from another except in one instance.

W. G. Miles, Evansville, took the largest amount in prize money. His total was $212. E. Crail and Son, Evansville, were second with $162, and M. F. Hogan, Wausau, third with $105.

MANY GET PRIZES IN ARTS EXHIBIT

Home Talent Workers Given More Chance in Fair This Year.

High grade work in embroideries and needlework was shown at the Janesville fair this week, much of the old time stuff which has appeared for years being eliminated. Also most of the entries have been made from people living in Rock county which is also encouraging to local exhibitors. Another thing which helps local talent is that professional exhibitors touring the state, have not appeared in so prominent a way as heretofore and the prizes are more evenly divided, thus giving the home talent worker a chance.

Of course, sheets and pillow cases appear in vast numbers and of most intricate designs. Then come towels, handkerchiefs, rugs, knitted lace, luncheon sets and every kind of handwork that the domestic mind can conceive. Fine bed quilts and sofa pillows contributed by old women and evenly knitted lace like cobwebs and fine handwork on embroidered aprons in this class planned for women over 70.

Young Girls Compete. Another class was arranged for girls under 18 and several ambitious girls competed. Especially noticeable were articles contributed by Fola Hilton, Ringold street.

Very dainty were the luncheon sets consisting of cloth and napkins in one class of those a woman from St. Atkinson, Mrs. C. H. Bellman, secured first prize.

For napkins with a flit least, first was given to Mrs. F. D. Cannon. An embroidered bed spread of hickory of flowers, secured first prize for Mrs. A. R. Nelson, Rockford.

A handsome blue cotton quilt—first prize, Mrs. Alice Clark, route 4, loc cabin, Mrs. Marcia Grunzell. A pair of embroidered pillow cases—Mrs. R. Tafavatz.

Pillow cases with knit insertion—Mrs. E. H. Hill. Embroidered dresser cover and bathroom handkerchief—Miss Mae Clark.

Centerpiece crocheted edge—Mrs. F. W. Koebler. Mrs. Ole Lulius and Mrs. N. A. Hedberg are in charge of the exhibit.

More Culinary Awards. Some more red and blue ribbons are noticeable in the culinary department, the judging on these articles being all completed. Prizes are: Sunlight cake—Mrs. Carl Hansen, Edgerton; marble cake, Mrs. H. E. Todd; hickory nut cake, Mrs. J. R. Wauzon, route 21.

Piezo for sponge, curamal and white cake were won by Mrs. M. C. Boynton.

The first for cranberry pie was won by Mrs. John Terry, lemon pie, Mrs. A. Walker, chocolate pie, Mrs. W. P. Hill; loaf of bread, Mrs. F. W. Arnold; loaf of rye bread, Mrs. F. W. Arnold; loaf of rye bread, Mrs. F. W. Arnold; loaf of rye bread, Mrs. F. W. Arnold.

The large number of entries has made the work of the judges difficult, and the work on Friday morning on the pictures and the arts had only just begun. The collection of good and better credit on the artists of Southern Wisconsin. Many of the landscapes are sketched from local scenery, and these made along Rock river are especially fine. Many of the pictures formerly shown do not appear, and the art exhibits taken as a whole, are extremely creditable and show much ability, as well as careful training.

Next Mrs. Clark and Thelma Clark are in charge of the fine arts department.

WHERE TO SAVE. It is easy when you know how. Many housewives save worth-while sums on their food purchases each Saturday by reading The Gazette food pages Friday nights and shopping at the stores that advertise. There is some interesting bargain information on pages 4 and 5 of today's Gazette.

DANCING tonight at Country Bluff.—Advertisement.

Changes Made in Milk Meetings. Meetings for the Sapiro contract milk marketing campaign have been rearranged in Rock county to meet the needs of the producers in the remaining townships.

The meeting in Milton Junction, scheduled to have been held Aug. 14, has been postponed until Aug. 21, announces the county committee. The Footville meeting will be held Aug. 15 in the evening and the Shoppers meeting on Aug. 28.

It is announced that 2011 contracts have been actually reported in the Chicago district with indications that the committee of nine will have 6,000 by September 1. Rock county is still leading with 750 contracts.

JOHNSON TO OPEN
CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

State Treasurer to Make Opening Speech Here—Morgan to Follow.

Henry Johnson, candidate for state treasurer, will make the opening speech of his campaign at court house park following the band concert tonight. It is not often that Henry Johnson makes a speech but when he does he has something to say. He promises some sensational revelations tonight.

William J. Morgan, candidate for governor, closed his campaign in the northern part of the state at Black River Falls last night and is on his way to Janesville. He is scheduled to speak at Stoughton, Edgerton and Janesville before reaching Janesville.

In five weeks Morgan has spoken in 51 counties and in each has made from three to nine speeches. He has made the last ten days while suffering from a severe cold and at Black River Falls was under the care of a physician for the first time in the campaign.

Morgan has made a fighting campaign, one of the kind that sent him to the attorney generalship with the largest vote of any candidate with a real contest on the ticket and with more than 100,000 larger majority in the election than was given to Blaine, his present opponent.

Federal Board Has Optimistic View of Outlook

Special Summary by Federal Reserve Board

The outstanding feature of the greater part of the month has been the continuance of business and industrial activity at the relatively high level recently attained. In fact, production has shown further increases in some lines, while in those which normally would be noticeably affected by seasonal influences, decreases on the whole have been relatively slight. At the same time, prices have continued their upward tendency.

As the current month progressed the effects of the coal and railroad strikes began to make themselves felt. This influence has served recently to restrain productive activities

In various lines notably iron and steel. The plans recently announced by the administration are expected to relieve the situation.

The output in various lines of manufacture showed further improvement in June. This was particularly noticeable in the case of iron and steel, copper, automobiles, and tanning. Construction activity has been well sustained. The amount of bituminous coal mined in June showed a considerable increase, but since the opening of the present month has fallen off greatly. Coal stocks have consequently been further drawn upon. Petroleum output continued large, stocks are in fact accumulating.

A further reduction in the number of persons out of work was reported during June, and scarcity of labor continued to be noted, especially in the building trades. Agricultural prospects are still very satisfactory for the country as a whole. In wholesale trade there was a general improvement during June. The volume of recent tail trade was well sustained though slightly less than in May.

Financially, there have been few new developments noted for the month. Two Federal Reserve banks reduced the discount rate. Of much interest has been the announcement by the treasury calling for redemption on December 15, 1922, of approximately one billion dollars of the 4 1/2 per cent. Victory notes. Federal Reserve bank portfolios show little change, while member bank loans other than those secured by stocks and bonds show a downward tendency.

ONE GREAT BIG SUBSTANTIAL SUCCESS

Results of the fair have been remarkable. On the closing day it is well to stop and look back on a splendid achievement—the greatest in 12 years. In the first place the weather has been so fine that it in itself is remarkable. Fair weather has usually been anything but fair. And the attendance has broken records. Also when Rock county started a year ago with the slogan "Rock County First" the fair in 1922 began to be a success. The display of live stock has been a revelation to those even in the live stock business. And the men who have been in close touch with the live stock industry of the county. Gathered together, herds side by side have presented a mass of evidence of the leadership of the county in dairying and animal production. The days of the scrub are rapidly passing from Rock. A few are left but the day is not far distant when the scrub will be only a memory along with the pioneer days and the log cabin.
Rock county will have an exhibit at the state fair which will be a real advertisement for the county to the thousands who visit that state institution Aug. 23 to Sept. 2.
The Gazette is naturally interested in the winners of the cups presented by it to the boys and girls in the Pig, Sheep and Calf clubs of the county. Here is the start of the boy and girl toward a life of "worth-while-ness." The competition is keen, the rivalry great and the exhibits this year have been better than ever. Into the hands of three young people will go the cups presented by the Gazette and they will be stimulants to continued effort. If you do not agree with this statement it may be well to note that one of the winners this year was a winner last year. So it may happen again.
The Gazette congratulates the fair organization on the success it has achieved, and the exhibitors and others who have participated may take pride also in having contributed to the best fair we have ever held.
Immediately after the close of the fair a financial statement should be issued so that the public may see just what a success for a fair means. That will tell the story better than any assertions or mere conclusions drawn from outside views.

A WISCONSIN VOICE IN MINNESOTA

Out of the wilderness of Northern Wisconsin a voice has penetrated to Minnesota and been given a broadcasting through the columns of the Minneapolis Tribune. It is added testimony to what the Gazette has constantly repeated that no state in the union has passed through the trying business of the last two years so well and with all colors flying as has Wisconsin. We have a large crop of calamity howlers and sometimes the crowd is larger than others, but the facts are that we have little reason for the howler. Writing to the Minneapolis Tribune, Tom O. Mason, president of the Haugeon State Bank in Washburn county says:
"Wisconsin is some laps ahead of Minnesota on both dairying and diversified farming, but the latter is catching up the gap, and it is doing so because the economic experience of the Badger state coincides nicely with what has happened in Minnesota where dairying and diversified farming have been undertaken intelligently as a departure from the one-crop practice.
"Farmers around Haugeon weathered the 'recent financial flurry' almost unharmed. There was such a thing, because the flow of returns for dairy products was as regular as the flow of the products themselves. Farmers in some Minnesota communities could reach their hands out over the state line, figuratively speaking, grasp the hands of the Haugeon farmers and say: 'Here's to you, we've done it too.'
"Minnesota farmers can do themselves a good turn by taking leaves from the story of agricultural experience in Wisconsin and applying the lessons thereof to their own case. Our sister state never came into such prominence as a wheat-growing state as Minnesota and the Dakotas. It adjusted itself more readily for that reason to the business of diversified farming effort."
After correcting the statement of Mr. Mason in that we have closed one bank in the last sixty days because the cashier took the contents of the vault and fled, the Tribune adds what must be accepted as one of the moving reasons for the greatness of Wisconsin.

Over here in Wisconsin we got wise to diversified farming some time ago and we have been preaching, encouraging this method of agriculture for years and, as a result, the Wisconsin farmer is in far better financial circumstances than the farmer of either the grain or corn belt.
During the recent financial flurry, and, in fact, for years back, there has not been a bank failure in the state of Wisconsin. We attribute this fortunate condition of affairs to the fact that our farmers are paid cash for their dairy products semi-monthly instead of waiting a year, and in cases of crop failures, several years, for uncertain grain returns.
In that the Tribune only half states the Wisconsin situation. We have built here a new farming atmosphere. Farming is no longer a mere guess and a happy-go-lucky proposition.

New York to Welcome Strangers

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN
Washington.—Have you never heard of a genial, hospitable hamlet on your eastern coast called New York city? A town where the values are safe, where the highest cost of living is low, where gentle courtesy prevails and the Golden Rule is the invariable practice? If not, you are destined to hear about it shortly. A widespread publicity campaign is soon to be launched by its public-spirited citizens which will show to a skeptical world the unparallelled virtue, beauty, comfort, and righteousness of this much-maligned metropolis.
The campaign will be directed particularly at strangers, since it would be superfluous to attempt to thrust new information on persons already acquainted with the city. Also it might start an embarrassing argument. The object is to carry the truth to those unfortunate people dwelling in pathetic remoteness from New York, who have come to entertain a wrong opinion of its character.
New York has been entertaining about 120,000,000 visitors every year, according to statistics gathered by the Merchants' Association. In 1921, the number rose to 133,877,381, which is more than the population of the United States. In other words, the whole population of the nation could have come to this city, and a third of it could have made a second visit. A third of it could have, but did it? The good citizens of Manhattan are beginning to feel that second visits from strangers are on the decline. Certainly, a large number of those who come in 1921 have, so far, not returned in 1922, and furthermore, they have taken great pains to state their reasons to their friends and acquaintances back home. These reasons are usually anything but complimentary to New York!

Consequently, the business men of the city, and especially those of the Hotel association, which comprises 124 of the largest hostilities, held a consultation and decided that drastic measures would have to be taken to make people like New York and want to return. All agreed they would have to drop its mantle of indifference. Newcomers should be given a cordial welcome, they declared, while the recent shower of blows on the city's reputation would have to be erased by skillful publicity.
"Do you realize that the infant death rate in New York is lower than it is in any other great city in the world?"
"Do you know that the death rate in New York city is the lowest of any great city in the world?"
"Do you know that New York has the purest and best milk, the best guarded food supplies of any city in the world?"
"Do you know that every food handler in New York city is examined by the board of health to make sure that he is free from disease?"
"Do you know that when a visitor comes here he is better guarded, as regards his health and safety, than in any other place? No matter where he comes from, he is better off here than he is at home."
At least, if this last is not quite true now, it is apt to be. The hotel men who, as might be expected, are the real life of the "Welcome Stranger" movement, are going to see to that. They have already organized a "Welcome Stranger" committee, which is busy mobilizing the public-spirited, as well as those who are not, into one grand promotion army. The Merchants' association is preparing to demonstrate the city's unsurpassed shopping facilities; the Automobile Club of America will seek to direct motorists to New York by describing the unsurpassed smoothness of its roads, while the steamship companies will supply their passengers with similar information concerning the various dazzling opportunities that await the visitor.

Traveling in the direction of New York will doubtless become like a sightseeing ride without the scenery. Instead of harrowing forgetful porters, the process will be reversed and you will have to be constantly poised for flight to escape a flood of particulars on the noblest metropolis in the world. If you ring for a towel, the porter will describe the wonderful though often the will-plumbering of the best New York hotels. The waiters in the dining cars will dilate on the epicurean delights of the city's restaurants and taverns. And, in punching your ticket the conductor will probably throw in a word or two about the wisdom of buying your theater tickets anywhere but at the theater box office.
Then, if one suggestion submitted to the Hotel association is carried out, just before your train pulls into the station, a man wearing an authoritative cap will come through the car, and ask you if you have made a reservation at any New York hotel. If not, he will hand you a little folder containing the names of a large number of hotels, their locations and prices. If any one of the number happens to be crowded on that particular day, its name will be crossed off the list.
At the present time, it seems, there is a lamentable lack of knowledge among railroad employees concerning the capacity and sterling service of many of the city's best taverns. Time and again, it is charged, strangers on their first visit to New York are informed by porters that it would be useless for them to attempt to get in the large hotels, which "are filled to the brim with a big convention," and are directed instead to lodging houses. The porters are well acquainted with these, because they are paid a fee for each guest recommended to them.
But the responsibility of the "Welcome Stranger" committee does not cease with the establishment of the visitor in a safe and becoming place of abode. It feels in duty bound to steer his subsequent wanderings about the city; to see that he appreciates the best side of New York and to guard him, as far as possible, from petty thievery. People who have their wallets stolen on the third day they are there seldom return, and they desire to return a second time, while even the pleasant memory of an excellent Broadway comedy cannot eradicate the painful impression of a taxi fare that was three times what it should have been.
Thus, while half of the committee is devoting its time to interesting visitors in all the worth while features of New York, the other half will be waging a campaign against dishonest taxi drivers and unreliable public porters.

It is based on the same rules of good business as is banking or anything else organized for efficiency. And here in Southern Wisconsin where that is better done than anywhere else in the state we have the concrete results before us in the condition of the farmers who have weathered the depression.
Candidate McHenry in his address to the Janesville voters Thursday night said that the "Association Against Prohibition" was a bunch of dollar bill collectors and some of them would be down in Cuba later. Mr. McHenry, who is running for governor on his own platform, mostly made up of a demand for the repeal of the prohibition laws, is at least honest in his attitude and makes no attempt to camouflage his demands or to deceive the public. He is the one, avowed and openly wet candidate in the state though suspicion attaches to others.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
THE MOTORIST'S EPITAPH
When I shall quit the steering wheel
And leave the left-side seat forever,
When never more my good right heel
Shall press upon the starting lever,
When in the silent hearse I ride,
If you shall follow with the mourners,
Say this, and it shall be my pride:
I never swung around the corners.
When I depart life's thoroughfares
And quit the turmoil of the traffic,
Though little shall I leave my heirs
Deserving praises epitaphic.
Still you might say this thing for me:
To drive with care was ever my way;
However hurried I might be,
I never thought I owned a highway.
I never risked my neighbor's life
By speeding him in bus or trolley,
Or filled his breast with rage and strife;
By thinking I was ace of aces;
And when a boulevard I neared,
I stopped, although not many do it,
And waited till the way was cleared—
I never tried to beat men to it.
When I shall leave the driver's seat
And quit the steering wheel forever,
Say this: On boulevard or street
I pulled no tricks I thought were clever.
When I depart this worldly post,
If you perhaps recall me kindly,
Say this: For it's my only boast:
I never turned a corner blindly.

MARCEL'S ETIQUETTE
Q. What are considered good topics of conversation at a formal dinner?
A. The removal of your appendix and how much you were charged by Doctor So and So. How you were cured of dandruff. Any dental work which you have submitted recently. An anecdote about finding a dead mouse in your plum pudding when you dined with the lord mayor of London. Dyspepsia and its causes.
Q. When your hostess asks you to visit the nursery, what would you say?
A. State how wonderful your own children are—if you have any. Call attention to any stupidity which the infants might display. You believe that we all resemble some animal or other. Be sure and state the animal which the boy looks like. Of course, they bear the characteristics of said animals. A fox a fox, a pig a pig, a bear a bear. You believe in that firmly.

Mrs. William G. Brown of Kingswood, West Virginia, is the first woman to lose the race for nomination as a candidate for the senate in the coming election. Mrs. Brown's announcement of her candidacy was unique in that she was the only woman to make a formal address to the voters of the state and merely had a heart to heart talk with them instead.
Mrs. Brown is a native of West Virginia as a political campaigner. Before her marriage to the late Representative William G. Brown she was Izetta Jewell, an actress. She was in the company with James K. Hackett and Otis Skinner before she appeared in Polaris in Washington, where she was leading woman of the stock company for several seasons.
She was heralded as the idol of the San Francisco National Democratic Convention which she attended in the summer of 1912. Her political record in her state is good and she has stamped more than once for the Democratic party.

FORTY YEARS AGO
August 31, 1882.—Although the spectacular fall of meteors seen the night before last was predicted again for last night for some time, disappointing the many people who stayed awake to see it.—Rev. ### PROJECTING EARS

One of the most frequent deformities of the ears is undue prominence, the ears standing out from the head and sometimes even drooping forward or downward in such a manner as to give the individual a stupid appearance, though it has no unpleasant significance. Sometimes this is an inherited condition, a feature running in the family. Possibly it is acquired in infancy, in some cases, from lying on the infant's head with the ears pulled forward. Both ears are prominent, although one is usually more prominent than the other. As a matter of fact, practically no one has a perfectly symmetrical face and head; careful comparison will almost invariably show differences in the form and size of the features.
When the ears stand out abnormally in infancy the mother should make a simple ear cap or bandage which may be kept on practically all the time and which will hold the ears in a normal position but not compress them against the head. The harness should be of soft muslin, washable, light, and practically the skeleton of a cap, no band or string under the chin being necessary. Any bandage from head to chin or bandage will be obtained in not to exceed six months.
After the age of three years it is not possible to correct outstanding ears by any appliance. Nothing short of a plastic operation will suffice. The younger the patient when any kind of plastic or corrective surgery is done, the better the result will be from the viewpoint of function and appearance.
The operation consists of the removal of a thin slice of skin from the groove behind the ear, the form and area of the surface thus denuded being determined by the direction and degree of the loop or malposition of the ear. The ear is then drawn against the head, the inclosed edges of the wound stitched together to enable the healing process to fix the ear in the correct position. Dressings and bandages are discarded after a few days, and it is necessary for the patient to wear some kind of bandage at night for a month, to prevent injury to the wound or scar in sleep.
Of course, there is a scar behind the ear after such an operation, but as it follows the line of the natural groove

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel."
FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1922
Contrary stars rule today with the sinister influence dominating, according to astrology. Venus is in the sign of Cancer, the sign of the heart. Saturn and the Sun are adverse.
"It is a day in which women may be exceedingly variable and erratic. Many may suffer from nerve-strain at the time."
Bad luck is supposed to attend weddings today, not because it is Friday but because the stars encourage fickleness and disloyalty.
This is not a particularly favorable day for those who are optimistic. Optimism which is disappointed. Saturn is in a place most menacing to persons in high positions, encouraging envy, jealousy and the loss of friendship.
This is a most unfavorable way for politicians, whether they be men or women.
Many changes in employment are likely to be decided today, but the good side of the chance while this configuration prevails.
This is not a lucky day for those who look for positions and women especially may find conditions discouraging.
Saturn is in a place of most sinister omen for workers and it would seem that severe clashes with men in places in the Sun will be numerous.
The Sun in close proximity to the time of Jupiter in the horoscope of the king of Italy is fortunate at this time and may have a far-reaching effect.
It may be called that astrologers read in the aspects of Saturn, danger of troubles in regard to marriage. Aspects are today not at all satisfactory to those who hope for the right sort of prosperity, which means cooperation.
Persons whose birthdays it is and who pass rather a quiet year, safeguarding all one's property and preparing for more activity in 1923.
Children born on this day may be temperamental and disinclined to systematic work. They are likely to be greatly gifted.

to the gifts of a goose. The venison party in feudal times was reserved for the lord and his principal guests. For those who eat "below the salt" pigs were made of the inferior portions, and these were called umble pies. Hence to eat umble pie was to occupy an inferior position.
Q. Why is a speech sometimes called a philippic? N. C. B.
A. The series of attacks by Demosthenes upon Philip, of Macedonia, who was a notorious subjugator of all Greece, became famous as the "Philippics," hence the term applied to addresses or orations that are directed against an individual.

A. RUCHTI WINS WITH DUROC LITTER

Henry Wieland Has Grand Champion Boar, Croft Winning Sow.

"Your fair exhibit has convinced me that Rock county has become the Duroc-Jersey hub of the United States," declared Gus Boshstet, Ohio, swine judge at the Janesville fair. "The display was remarkable and it is to be hoped you can keep going at the present rate. I notice great improvement over the previous years. The entire swine exhibit was exceptionally good for any fair."

Clarence Croft, Janesville, one of the younger breeders of the county in age, carried off major honors in the Duroc class. Croft had no cinder in any class for there were only a few poor pigs put into competition. They were mainly from the local area, and the Duroc breed, real top-notchers. The best from the exhibit and in the county will be taken to the state fair under the "Rock county First" banner.

Wieland Is Winner

Henry Wieland and sons, Deloit, sprung a surprise in winning the grand championship honors in the boar classes. The Wieland only, Valley Giant, won in the junior yearling class finishing ahead of Neb's Sensation owned by L. A. Ruchti. Then the Deloit entry was pitted against Fashion-Plate, the giant Duroc sire from the Croft herd, and won the royal purple ribbon. The judges selected Valley Giant because of his unusual physique as a great boar with additional development.

"That boar properly handled will make Duroc history," commented Boshstet.

The climax contest in the Duroc class was the future litter contest. There were 64 pigs driven into the pavilion ring for the litter and open fair classes. It was a wonderful showing of gilt contests in both the future litter contest and first prizes were first decided. The first five in the litter match won Valley Giant, and 10 won in each class in the association competition.

Clarence Croft took first money on boar with an entry that should win at the state fair. This pig has the ear-marks of being a corner. L. A. Ruchti won second, and the order was then, Clarence George, Alva Maxfield, Clarence Croft, J. A. Ruchti, George Morrison, Selk brothers, Fred Waldman and Harry Dahly.

In the gilt contest the places were awarded as follows—L. A. Ruchti, with an animal with perfect feet, good bone and smoothness, then Selk brothers. Croft, Ruchti, Croft, Maxfield, Selk, Morrison, George and Waldman.

Then came the litter contest and there was little question but what the Ruchti entry deserved. First place, Croft took second and then the others in the order named: Selk brothers, Morrison, George, Maxfield, Waldman, R. J. Nelson, Harry Dahly, W. V. Henry and son, Avalon. The fine quality of the display appealed to the ringmasters. None of the entrants had poor animals. When it was considered there were 172 head of red hogs at the fair, second and third ribbons are to be valued.

In age boar, Croft placed first with Fashion-Plate. George Fenn second with Red Orion and F. H. Arnold third. All three are great type sires. Wieland placed first in the junior yearling contest with the grand champion, followed by Ruchti with his big Neb's Sensation and J. J. McCann third. J. L. Fisher won the senior yearling prize.

Female Division

In the female classes Croft took first and second with Fred Waldman, third. There was a great contest with senior yearlings and Croft nosed out Alva Maxfield for first and Clarence George took third. Maxfield had two fine types sows at the fair and it took careful judging to pick better ones. In senior sow class Arnold stepped out for a blue ribbon with George Morrison, second, and Clarence George third. The young head Selk brothers won first with George second, Morrison, third and Waldman, fourth. In get of sire Ruchti took first with Croft, Selk and George placing. In produce of dam the winners were: Ruchti, Croft, Selk brothers and George, and in age herd, Croft, Arnold, George and Hughes.

Full Car Load

The Duroc men will take their winners and a number of others for a full carload to go on the "Rock county First" show circuit. A few of the breeders may exhibit at the Monroe fair next week and then go to Madison under the county banner and then into Milwaukee.

Walsh brothers, Deloit, who have a fine herd, will also show in Milwaukee and will add strength to the Rock county state fair exhibit.

The Duroc exhibit was easily the greatest collection of red swine ever seen in southern Wisconsin and the breeders gave ample evidence of the fact Rock county has got the Duroc.

Thinks Hirst Too Pessimistic on Road Situation

In a statement this week, J. K. Jensen, head of the Janesville Sand and Gravel company, replies to the statement of State Highway Engineer A. R. Hirst that the "big up" as far as getting sand, gravel and stone moved by the railroads, which he characterized as utterly too pessimistic.

Mr. Jensen said that President H. E. Byram of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, President Finley of the Northwestern, and other officials of both roads have assured him that the situation will not bring a halt to road and other construction.

"No doubt there will be some difficulties in securing all the cars needed," said Mr. Jensen, "but the roads will be in a position to give us a considerable number of cars. The Northwestern officials made the statement without qualification, that within four days after the settlement of the shippers' strike they would be able to give us all the cars we wanted, regardless of the coal strike situation."

WALWORTH WINNER OF SWINE PRIZES

In Yorkshires, Chesters and Others—Great Poland Display.

Poland-China breeders were second in numbers at the Janesville fair swine exhibit with 91 head. The ribbons were awarded Thursday afternoon.

John G. Davis and son, route six, Janesville, won grand championship boar honors with The Clansman, the second, age 20 months, weighing 300 pounds. With a little more tiding this boar is in line for a state championship. A. O. Purseth, route six, Janesville, won grand championship on sows. The honors in the Poland division were fairly well split up among the breeders having herds entered.

The feature of the Poland exhibit was Giant of Fairview, owned by Charles Maltby, who had 25 head in the display from his farm on the Beloit road. This boar is considered the tallest pig in the United States at 16 months of age.

Poland Winners

The fair placings were as follows: Age boar, John G. Davis, W. M. Connor, John Little, junior yearling boar, C. O. Hooper, George Conway and James Murray, senior boar pig, John Little, John G. Davis, A. O. Purseth, Maltby; junior boar pig, Little, Purseth, second and third, W. H. Kelly and James White.

Female classes—Age sow, Purseth, W. H. Kelly and John Little; senior yearling sow, J. C. Little, John Little and Maltby; junior yearling sow, Purseth, J. D. Little and Conway; senior sow pig, Purseth, Maltby, second and fifth, J. D. Little, third and fourth, John G. Davis, fourth, Purseth, first, second and fifth, James White, third and James Murray, 183.

Age herd, J. D. Little and Maltby; young herd, Purseth, first and second, J. D. Little and James White; get of sire, Purseth, first and second, White, and J. D. Little. Produce of dam, Purseth, first and second, White and J. D. Little.

A. O. Purseth had 17 head of good Poland at the fair and selected the most blue ribbons. The Poland breeder contestants and the number of animals at the fair were as follows: Charles Maltby, 25; Hooper, 5; John Davis, 2; James W. Little, 1; James White, 6; Walter Kelly, 17; James Murray, 5; A. O. Purseth, 17; William Connor, 1; Conway farms, 6; J. D. Little and son, 17. The Poland men are having a great year of development work in Rock county. They will attempt to put on a future litter contest and have a larger number of entries in the pig club next year.

Other Swine Classes

Fred Vaughan, Lyons, veteran breeder, won the majority of prizes in the Hampshire class with his great herd. He had the international grand champion sow in the exhibit, A. Craig Janesville, who has been developing this breed for a limited time, made a good showing against the veteran Vaughan.

In the Yorkshire breed, Walworth county showed Rock some fine animals of this bacon type of swine. The herd of Bartleson and son, Springfield, were winners.

There was competition in the Chester White division with the following breeders represented: William Schiebe and son, Walter Besecher, Frank Kuehn, Walworth county and E. H. Hanson, Schlobo had grand champion boar and Besecher, grand champion sow. The herd of E. H. Hanson and son placed in many of the divisions. The Chester White herd of Butts and Besecher will represent Rock county at the state fair.

Walworth Entries

There were five carloads of Walworth county swine in the swine contests and the neighboring county has some good animals. Walworth county is especially strong on broad-boned developed much in Rock county. The Walworth breeders won high praise from the Rock county Duroc and Poland men for the herds they are taking on the show circuit.

Local Man Buys Hotel in Madison

Purchase of the Simon hotel, one of Madison's oldest hostilities, by Frank Stoldt, 1150 1/2 Union avenue, Janesville, has been announced. Mr. Stoldt is in the real estate business, having moved here a year ago from Monroe. He took possession of the hotel this week. The family will move to Madison soon.

The hotel has 34 rooms and has a front of 65 feet on Butler street. For many years it was a favorite of farmers who came to that city and the home of many Wisconsin legislators.

It was sold two years ago by the Simon Bros. to Orlando Cleveland, and Mr. Stoldt has purchased it from the latter. Extensive improvements in the furnishings are planned.

Little Change in Highway Detours

[By Associated Press.]

Milwaukee.—The detours on the different highways around Milwaukee and vicinity have remained much the same during the last week, the Milwaukee Journal's tour department review Friday says.

Highway 15 north to Fond du Lac and Green Bay still has 20 miles of detour between Slinger and Fond du Lac and a rather poor 2 mile detour just outside of Oshkosh.

Highway 57-114-15 to points north of Appleton and 15-55 to Fond du Lac are recommended. No. 55 has three detours on it but these are over fairly good gravel roads for the most part.

Highway 37 to Sturgeon Bay is in fairly good condition. There is a short detour just north of Cleveland and one into Sturgeon Bay.

Highway 51 to Beloit has another detour on it and travel on 51 to Elkhorn, 20 to Janesville and 10 to Beloit are recommended. No. 36 still has a detour around Wind Lake although this is in fairly good condition.

No. 12 with its detour to the best route to Madison and to the Dells is suggested.

Highway 29 still has the detour between Slinger and Hartford and between Hustisford and Columbus.

For St. Paul the route embracing

HEAD OF CAVALRY TROOP IS FIRST IN MARKSMANSHIP

Capt. Gilman H. Stordick of the Janesville cavalry company, is an expert shot. This is attested by the records he has been knocking down this week at Camp Douglas where the troop is in training. He is leading the rifle scores for the state grand camp of the second period with 131 out of a possible 250, and ranked among the 100 notchers on the pistol range with 276. Rev. C. D. Boardman, captain of the Delavan company, made 298, which is but nine points below the top-notchers, Col. F. J. Scheller, Neenah.

STATE PUTS O. K. ON ICE USED HERE

Supply Is Declared Safe by State Health Board After Tests.

Janesville's natural ice supply has been given the official "O. K." of the Wisconsin board of health. It was announced Friday by local health officials—Dr. Fred B. Welch and Dr. L. Woodworth, ice being distributed here this summer by two companies is officially pronounced "safe" following careful laboratory tests made at Madison.

Samples of ice of both companies were taken late in July by Dr. Welch and Dr. Woodworth and transported to Madison by automobile.

Freezing Kills Impurities

"In my 14 years' experience as a physician, and four years as health officer, I have never known of a case of disease traceable to ice," said Dr. Welch. "It is a fact generally known that practically all of the impurities of water are eliminated in the process of freezing. Combine with this the storing of it for three months or more—as is the case with ice used here—and there is practically no danger."

Danger of Handling

While accepting the state board's report of the ice as being safe, Dr. Welch would neither approve nor disapprove of the practice of putting ice directly into water and beverages for human consumption.

"There is so much change for contamination in the handling of the ice and in breaking it up for such use, that I would hesitate to recommend it," he said. "It is possible, however, to handle it in such a way that there is no danger of contamination."

Chicago—Edward Schillo, former race-driver and auto dealer, and Roy J. Keller, an automobile man, were killed when their airplane fell at Naperville, Ill.

Angus Cattle at the Fair

Giant black Angus cattle from the herd of W. L. Gelbach and son, Lancaster, Wis., are being shown at the Janesville livestock exposition. Gelbach had no competition, but this herd has been consistent in fair winners for a number of years.

At one time Rock county was noted for good Angus cattle, but the rush for strictly dairy cattle pushed the black cattle out of the limelight and there are only two good herds in the county now. Many breeders still use the Angus as feeder cattle for they are good in beef production.

The Gelbach herd is known as Daddergelach and is the oldest Angus herd in Wisconsin. It was founded in 1891 by a purchase from John Milne, Prospect, Minn., and from the Ames Hall and son, Illinois breeders.

Phil Roesch, a Civil war veteran, and W. L. Gelbach were partners in the business in the pioneer days of blooded cattle breeding.

They used good sires such as Golden Nugget, Camden, Maple Leaf Teddy, Blackcap Earl, Baron, Barlow, Knight's Hair, Malta Laddie and Star W. P., which has been senior herd sire for the last three years and is being shown in the fair herd. His place in the herd is being taken by the sire Proud Boy third, having the blood of the great bull, Prince lio.

Baron Barbara was sired by the champion show and great breeding bull, Black Woodlawn, and his dam was a sure fair winner, a champion as a two-year-old.

The herd is a remarkable example of good breeding and development and it is to be hoped Gelbach will return to the Janesville fair next year.

3 Breeders Take All Awards for Sheep and Goats

Prizes for sheep at the Janesville fair were taken by three large breeders, who took the premiums with no competition from another except in one instance. W. G. Miles, Evansville, through his larger flock at the fair, took the largest amount in prize money. His total was $212. E. Craff and Son, Evansville, were second with $162, and M. F. Hogan, Waunakee, third with $103.

Miles took all prizes for Rambouillet, Hampshire Downs and Southdowns, and had the champion ram and ewe for fine and medium wool. Hogan captured the championship for long wool.

E. Craff and Son placed for a majority of prizes for American Merinos, Horned Dorsets, Lincoln and Leicester and Angora goats.

Prizes for Goats and Oxford Down were taken by Hogan, who also won first for a Cheviot ram, two years old or over, competing with Craff's.
